J. H. KOOGLER, Editor.

Slightly Venemous, but not Reptilian Would be an expression properly characteristic of the last week's is sue of our able friend, the Revista Catolic 1. The extravagent exhibition of bad temper and the vindictive promises of wrath, for the future, merit a short notice.

It is a rule with us to drop a subject, when we get through with it, and not be continually rehashing stale arguments in dead and gone discussions. We have no particular hobby, religious or political, which we wish to ride forever. We give all the local news we can gather; and when questions effecting the Territory and the people arise, we discuss them editorially, at the proper time, keep in view truth and justice, with regard always to the proprieties of life, and then abandon them. For these reasons we had dismissed from our columns. as getting stale; the various questions pricipitated upon the country by the Jesuit movements and demands in the late legislature, and turned attention to subjects of more immediate importance. But our contemporary appears to be anxious to be noticed, and finds a duliness settling down over the wordy warfare. It takes on a new phase and comes up to the scratch bristling with anger, red hot, out of joint and generally slopping over. Very uncharitahly it imputes to us every motive for action but the right one; says we are influenced by gold, fanaticism, ignorance, or masonry. Ignorance and fanaticism are questions between as which the people will decide. It has no evidence of the influence of gold, or masonry, in our case; it can have none, for there is none. Therefore we could with propriety, if it was not disrespectful, use that inelegant but forcitle term, bounded on the right hand by an exclamation point, so text of the Secreta Monita Secietawhich expresses so tersely a decided English, "The Secret Instructions degrees, will end in a flat refusal to denial; but we don't care to get of the Jesuits." The following is deliver them up. down to that. It never occurred to the the Revista, when making these charges, that possibly we might be influenced by a desire to do right. It not only unjustly and uncharitably pretends to assign to us a mo tive, but it. either illogically, ignorantly, or perversely misstates four position, and says we are opposed to the laws of the Catholic Church on matrimony. We never either favored, or opposed, very decidedly the law on that subject, but trea ted it with indifference. We did, however, publish a communication. giving the best reasons yet offered why a part of that law should be repealed (see GAZETTE of January 5th). But we do maintain that it is a perfectly legitimate subject of discussion. Will the Revista be kind enough to publish the present law and the carons of the church revenues. side by side, for the benefit of its readers, and allow them to judge cipline. for themselves which goes farthest in forbidding matrimony between relations. They will probably discover that the law is not so severe favored. as the church canons. The Revista also has a vicious habit of calling names, and thereby loses its dignity and decreases respect for it great- from the Society. ly. The Mesilla News gives Brother Ashenfelter a dig in the ribs as fellows: The last Herald announces that it has dropped the News from its exchange list. It is decidedly on the "drop." We can assign no reason, unless it is because we republished the item from the Ga-ZETTE that it has dropped 9 weeks from the last volume. In mentioning the sum of $300, the advertisements were not considered, so with them it would probably be larger.

We think it would be more to the edification of the people generally if it would devote more attention to the vast resources of our rich sister county, Grant, instead of flinging filth at us, which of late appears to be the height of his ambition. We suppose if he is not permitted to dictate the management of all the other papers in the Territory he will soon "drop" them from his list. We warn our brother editors in due

The Mesilia Vailey Independent brings the following items of interest: The recent discovery of rich gold mines in the north-western portion of Dena Ana County has drawn thither a population numbering nearly, or quite three hundred persons, to which accessions are made daily. The mines already of . ened are gold bearing quartz leads, paying forty dollars per ton and upwards. A number of arrestras, worked by steam and horse power, are in operation and paying well. The new mines are near the foot of the Minbres mountains, some twenty-five miles west of the Rio Granie, and can be reached either from Santa Barlara, on the river, or from the Upper Milabres.

Judging from present appearances, we predict that the procrastination and eva-ion of the Mexican authorities, in the matter of the extradition of t'e San Elizario mur-
